

Issues

1. Institutionalized Race-Based Policing: what tools can we use to ensure the province is required to uphold the rule of law & Charter of Rights and Freedoms if the federal government refuses to do so?
2. National security threats from radicals conducting economic terrorism on Canadian state at cost of $4.1B (Toby Barrett).
3. Lack of governmental ‘safety valves’ – federally and provincially - for victims of systemic police refusal to enforce the law or to do so equally.
4. How to discourage senior police officers from issuing illegal, politically-motivated orders?
5. Refusal of province/police to uphold Land Titles System thereby denying protection of the law to families and their property.
6. Failure of Ipperwash Inquiry to provide recommendations for the protection of innocent victims of land claim lawlessness.
7. Use of illegal ‘peacekeeping’ mission on Canadian soil to justify race-based policing.
8. Vexatious land claims used by radicals create instant payouts for themselves from federal/provincial governments while opening door to legalized lawlessness.
9. Land claims have become a political process rather than a legal one. (i.e. ultimate non-Caledonia example = Nisga’a case re BC’s deal to by-pass Constitution to create 3rd order of sovereign gov’t not subject to Canadian law [LINK])
10. Vital importance of private prosecution under Criminal Code of Canada as tool in holding gov’t/police/protesters accountable. Preventing Crown Attorneys from stopping evidence of a crime from being presented to Court by a private prosecutor.

Dealing with land claims

- 1) Land Claims MUST be taken out of the hands of the politicians.
- 2) All claims must be ruled whether they are valid claims or not before negotiations begin.
 - a. A special judge or panel of judges should be assigned to handle land claims
 - b. Both sides should be allowed one year to produce evidence to the validity of the claim.
 - c. The Judge rules whether the land claim is valid.
 - d. Government and Native groups have 18 months to negotiate a settlement.
 - e. Throughout the whole process all settlement offers must be made public.

 - g. Any illegal occupations or violence is deemed to be negotiating in bad faith and the claim goes immediately to binding arbitration.
- 3) The Federal/Provincial Government must refuse any further negotiations with any group that is involved in violence or illegal occupations of private property.
- 4) Change the law to allow victims of illegal occupations, physical assaults or property damage to seek compensation directly through the federal government, compensation to be funded from money that would normally be transferred to the Native Reserve that caused the damage. Victims should be able to file liens against any settlements or federal transfers.
